The largest crop raised by slave labor was in 1860, when the production was be without it afterwards: 4,669,770 bales. For five years after the war the crop ranged between two and three million bales, getting up to four millions in 1874, to five millions in 1879, and to six millions in 1881. During the last ten years, under free labor, the cotton yield has been from a third to a half larger than the biggest crop ever grown by slave labor.

Great as the production now is, it seems likely that it must reach even larger figures in the future. There is still much good cotton land in the South that is not utilized, and much that is farmed can be made to give a heavier yield by better cultivation.

For several years past, money and enterprise have been seeking investment in and when used put it on as hot as possicotton growing, and this tendency will continue as long as satisfactory returns brushes. are obtained. A cow will give three times as much milk in the winter kept in a warm stable as she will exposed to the cold winds. The same is true as to mules, horses and other cattle so far as feed is concerned and keeping fat. Half feed and warm stables is much better than whole feed and no stables. We know from experience, and life is too short and you are too old to try experiments. Better take our word and follow our advice in this matter .- Scotland Neck Democrat.

Reclaiming Wet Lands.

September is the best month for reclaiming boggy and wet lands. The first object should be to get rid of the surplus water. This should be done by means of under-drains carefully laid, made of common twelve-inch boards 11 inches thick, with one-the under side-left open. In other words a strong trough turned upside down. Such drains, if made of good lumber, will be sound for twenty years. Of course, the regular tile drains are better, but very much more expensive. On most farms in the country, there are lands that may be drained to advantage, and now when the crops are mostly laid by, the work can be done most economically. In draining bogs, the first step should be to cut off the spring water, which will be found generally to proceed from the surrounding highlands. Ditches | market. must be dug in such a manner as to intercept this water, and convey it to the general outlet. When this has been done, it may then be determined where cross ditches and how many of them will be required. To make the work effective care must be observed that the inclinations are correct, and the outlet fully large enough to carry off the utmost quantity of water that is ever accumulated during the wettest spells of weather. The top of no underdrain should be nearer to the surface of the ground than 18 inches; and it has been found that under-drains are most effective which average about two feet below the surface. Such a depth allows of deep culture, while there is no danger of any agricultural implement striking against the drain. A drain too near the ulso liable to injury.

Why Small Farmers are Prosperous.

We have often had occasion to call attention to the fact that those we are accustomed to call "small farmers" are generally the most prosperous people in the South. They are not so because small farms and very limited operations are in themselves, best, but because these farmers are working in harmony with circumstances. They have accepted the situation, and put their own hands to the plough. Having small capital, and often very limited knowledge and skill, they go safely, as they see the way clearly before them. The large planter on the contrary, often without any capital at all of his own, attempts on borrowed money (at fearfully high rates of interest) to conduct large operations, without closely counting the costs or the risks, and fail as any sound minded man, not infatuated with cotton, would see that he must. This does not prove that small farms and small farming are necessarily most profitable, but that our operations, both as to method and to extent, must correspond with our capital and other circumstances,-Rural Carolinian.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, a num-ber of which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my own case it has cer-tainly worked wonders, relieving me of Rheumatism, after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. - R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass. I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5. September 23, 1887
